Keskeinen sisältö	This course aims to introduce the basics of fair trade in terms of definitions and concepts, history, and organizational landscape. Beyond providing factual information, an important attention will be paid to exploring the current debates and challenges in the fair trade movement.We will also explore the place of fair trade within the constellation of economic alternatives. These alternatives includethe cooperative movement, the social and solidarity economy, sustainability transition as well as a number of other sector-related initiatives (finance, energy, etc.). The role of fair trade organizations as alternative economic actors will be explored and the collaborations between fair trade organizations and alternative economic actors in other sectors (social finance, renewable energy, sustainable food, etc.) will be examined. The evaluation will be based on participation to discussions, ex-post quizzes and written reports. This course is run in connection with EFTE-project. Most of the content will be provided by Benjamin Huybrechts and Julie Rijpens from HEC, University of Liege from Belgium. Both content and virtual platform will be evaluated during the course.The Schedule will be set in the introductory virtual lecture on Thursday 3 September at 9 am.
